WHAT

IS WUCT?

WUCT Is an annual chemistry competition for high school students that emphasizes collaboration and the application of chemistry to everyday life. Teams come from around the country to represent their high school or organization for a chance to demonstrate their chemistry abilities and win individual and team prizes. Organized by the Washington University STEM Education Association, a Washington University student organization, with input from the WUSTL Department of Chemistry, WUCT aims to provide an opportunity for all students with a love for chemistry to further develop their passion.
